

Jennifer Sherman

Senior Consultant

Jennifer Sherman is a seasoned executive coach, master trainer, and facilitator. She serves as a trusted partner and advisor to executives, managers, and business owners from Fortune 500 companies to start-ups. Her expertise lies in supporting leaders and managers to create high-impact, sustainable shifts in behaviors, mindset and approach. The outcome: greater results on both the revenue and people sides of their business.

jennifer@proteus-international.com

+1 612-926-9627

+1 914-912-4039

As an executive coach for almost two decades, she has helped her clients make profound changes in how they work, manage, lead and think about their businesses. Clients appreciate her ability to create a safe space for them to see themselves clearly and accurately, so they can gain the necessary skills and insights to elevate their personal and organizational success. Jennifer's coaching clients include executives from Stuart Weitzman, CNN, Madison Square Garden, Scripps Networks, Morgan Stanley, Turner Broadcasting, Viacom and AccuWeather as well as leaders from fast-growing smaller companies.

Jennifer is also a master trainer, known for her dynamic, high-impact and fun approach to learning. She has led a wide variety of leadership and management programs for employees and executives at all levels. Clients include: Citibank, Spectrum Enterprise, Turner Broadcasting, WICT, ESPN, Rockwell Automation, and NBCUniversal. In addition, she develops client trainers and facilitators to become more effective, authentic and credible.

Before becoming a Certified Coach, Jennifer built a career in marketing and advertising, serving at companies including USA Network and MasterCard. Her extensive experience crosses a number of industries including sports, cable television, banking, and magazine publishing.